

Meso Scale Diagnostics, LLC. (MSD) is a rapidly growing company located in Gaithersburg, Maryland, that specializes in the field of multiplexed biological measurements, providing cost-effective and valuable information for drug discovery, high throughput screening, and proteomics research to scientists in pharmaceutical, biotechnology, government and academic research organizations.

Position Summary:

Research Associate/Scientist: Meso Scale Diagnostics, LLC. (MSD) welcomes applications from candidates interested in joining our dynamic research team.. MSD develops advanced instrumentation and multiplex assay panels using its proprietary electrochemiluminescence detection technology, and is pursuing research and diagnostic applications in infectious disease, cancer, autoimmune disease, neurological disorders, and other clinical areas. Candidates will perform research and product development in a variety of areas, including development of multiplexed immunoassays for cancer biomarker discovery, fabrication of proteome arrays, and optimization of multiplexed assays for detection of protein post-translational modifications (e.g. phosphorylation) with supervision. Applicants should have a proven record of scientific accomplishment, the ability to work productively in a demanding research environment, and a thorough understanding of antibody-antigen interactions, proteins chemistry and basic molecular biology techniques. Experience with protein labeling and immobilization, protein arrays, lab automation, high-throughput screening and protein expression systems would be an advantage.

Some specific projects will involve the following:

Human Proteome Arrays and Antibody Array
Automated Multi-Array Assay Platform for Cancer Biomarkers
Molecular Pharmacodynamic Assays for Targeted Therapies

Requirements:

Strong interpersonal/communication ability and excellent analytical skills are essential. A PhD, B.S. or M.S. in molecular biology, genetics, biochemistry, or a related field with two years relevant work experience is required. MSD is an equal opportunity employer.

MSD offers competitive salaries and outstanding benefits, including:

- ü Medical PPO / Dental / Prescription / Vision Plans
- ü Health and Dependent Care Flexible Spending Accounts
- ü 401(k) Plan with Company Matching Contributions
- ü Short and Long Term Disability Insurance
